Edmond is a qualified civil engineer from the University of Adelaide Australia, working in the trenches within the water industry for 5 years before discovering his talent and passion for inspiring people. In 2007, Edmond left his engineering career for one of the world's largest training companies, Dale Carnegie. As of 2008, seeing that many Malaysians require the skills of success and fulfillment, he founded Education Republic in order to better empower our community.

In addition to being the director of Education Republic, Edmond is also the secretary to Adelaide Uni Alumni Malaysia Bhd. He is spearheading the alumni's community empowerment effort called the Blueprint to Success (BTS). He is also assisting a Selangor MP's education initiative called CHANGE! BTS and CHANGE! are non-profit initiatives that are designed to reach out to as many people in the shortest time and benefits anybody who wants to learn regardless of their economic status. He is also active within Toastmasters and is passionately involved with education in various orphanages

Edmond is one of the few speakers in the country who is helping people develop the power of the mind in order to produce life success and teaching only what he has practiced on his own. Edmond is also a regular columnist with JobsDB and is actively pursuing his love for writing.

Edmond's goal is to be in a position to influence a change in Malaysia's education system by 2019 and to turn Education Republic into the best adult education and empowerment and corporate soft skills training organization in Malaysia by 2012.

Edmond believes in living the passionate life, because it is a life worth living.
