

Edmond Yap

Executive Director – Education Republic
BEng Civil – University of Adelaide, Australia
Certified Practitioner of NLP - ISNS
Certified Practitioner of Neuro-Semantics - ISNS

Edmond is a qualified civil engineer from the University of Adelaide Australia, working within the water industry for 5 years before discovering his talent and passion for moving people to action. In 2007, Edmond left engineering for one of the world's largest training companies, Dale Carnegie Training. In 2008, he founded Education Republic in an effort to empower fellow Malaysians with the skills of success and fulfillment.

In his journey to achieve a nationwide education revamp, Edmond is now focused on assisting individuals and companies to achieve their full potential. He is partnered with highly talented business people and trainers who truly care about our community.

In living to his vision, Edmond spearheads a community empowerment effort called the Blueprint to Success (BTS). The BTS is a non-profit initiative that is designed to supply our community with the skills they need for life success. His partners include Tune Talk, JobsDB and The University of Adelaide.

Edmond is one of the few speakers in the country who is helping people develop a powerful mind and the ability to be unstoppable in order to produce life and business success and especially enjoys working with young leaders and influential corporate figures. His strengths include his passion and his ability to move people to action with life changing skills and doing it all with a fun, energy and impact.

Edmond is also a columnist with JobsDB and is actively pursuing his love for writing.

Edmond's goal is to be in a position to influence a change in Malaysia's education system by 2029 and to turn Education Republic into the best adult education, empowerment and corporate soft skills training organization in Malaysia by 2012.
